

Prevent Whooping Cough

Protect your loved ones from this serious disease.

Whooping cough (pertussis) is more than just a little cough. It's a serious disease that can be deadly, especially for babies. That's why the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) recommends these groups get vaccinated:

- Adults who haven't had the whooping cough vaccine
- Babies and children
- Pregnant women
- Preteens and teens

Help your family stay as healthy as can be.

Ask your family's healthcare providers about the whooping cough vaccine.
