Our healthcare coalitions have submitted several assessments to determine hazards and gauge readiness for their regions across the state. Assessment data is then used to inform plans and exercises for the latter half of the fiscal year. The required hospital medical surge exercise contains several patient movement elements which correlate with the work of the Medical Operations Coordination Center (MOCC) workgroup. The workgroup continues to meet monthly. It is comprised of hospital and public health preparedness professionals in addition to

EMS and EMA. The group spent the last year researching MOCCs and holding discussions for what MOCCs could look like for Iowa. We are hopeful the group moves forward with determining a system for the state. We have also revised our Preparedness Advisory Committee, formerly known as the PAC to the Preparedness Strategic Advisory Committee, P-SAC. We reduced membership redundancy and increased local stakeholder participation. We have sent out nomination surveys to obtain four local HPP representatives and four local PHEP representatives. Nominations for the committee are due by January 30. Additionally, we rewrote the advisory committee bylaws to provide a clearer picture of its purpose, structure, and guidelines
